

Do you have what it takes to be a Reading MASTER?

Do you spend most of your free time with your nose in a book?

To achieve your Reading MASTER, you will need to show me that you have a love of reading and can read and understand a range of different types of text.

According to some very clever people, there are 5 things that make books or stories difficult to understand when you read them.

1 – They use old fashioned language

2 – The narrator of the story is difficult to understand.

3 – The story jumps around in flashbacks

4 – There are lots of different plots going on at the same time.

5 – The book uses complicated metaphors and symbols.

If you think you can tackle these tricky types of books, then you may just have what it takes to be a Reading Master.

You will need to read at least one book from each of colour-coded sections for your year group and complete a book review of each one to show that you have a good understanding of what you have read. You should use the MASTER Book Review Template.

When you are ready to take your test, I will ask you questions about the books based on your reviews.

I can't wait for you to share your love of reading with me and look forward to discussing these great books with you!
